Scott Thornbury's 30 Language Teaching Methods 2004-08-02 annotation digital methods may be contrasted with what has come to be known as virtual methods a currently dominant approach to the study of the internet virtual methods rooted in the u k virtual society program 1997 2002 sought to ground cyberspace by demonstrating how it was hardly a realm apart whereas virtual methods have made great strides they rely on methods imported from the humanities and the social sciences do the methods have to change owing to the specificity of the medium and its objects with the end of the virtual i propose that internet research may be put to new uses given an emphasis on natively digital as opposed to digitized methods how to capture and analyze hyperlinks tags search engine results archived websites and other digital objects what may one learn from how online devices make use of the objects and how may such uses be repurposed for social and cultural research ultimately i propose a research practice that grounds claims about cultural change and societal conditions in online dynamics this title can be previewed in google books books google com books vid isbn9789056295936

Two Cultures Coming Together: Developing foreign language teaching and teacher education in Bulgaria 2006 essay from the year 2004 in the subject american studies linguistics grade 13 out of 16 university of bedfordshire luton business school 11 entries in the bibliography language english abstract the grammar translation method gtm to teach foreign languages dominated from the mid nineteenth century to the beginning of world war two and it is still used in some countries today in the late eighteenth century prussia in germany was the first place which began to establish gtm as the main method to teach a second language l2 at national highschools known as gymnasiums as howatt 1997 p 131 stated the method took an almost impregnable position as the favoured methodology of the prussian gymnasien after their expansion in the early years of the nineteenth century indeed gtm was in the mid nineteenth century the only widely used teaching method in the schools not only in germany also in other european countries originally it was used to teach greek and latin five hundred years ago latin was the official or main language of education religion business and authorities in europe after political changes in europe latin changed gradually a process of more than three hundred years from a living language to a school curriculum language and was replaced by english german french or italian as the main language for communication purposes richards and rodgers 1997 in the mid nineteenth century latin remained as an important subject in education for the upper class for centuries latin was taught to understand the fundamentals of grammar and translation in order to read or interpret latin texts most of the students who were taught latin were very well educated and therefore it was easier for them to learn a different language it was thought that the same teaching method to teach latin could be used to teach other foreign languages such as german french or english the same method to teach very well educated people should suit to teach younger learners as well in the mid nineteenth century the main aim was to learn a l2 for the purpose of gaining access to its literature in order to develop the learner s minds mentally due to this historical background gtm is also known as the traditional or classical method as the grammar school method or in america as the prussian method along with industrialisation more opportunities for communication had been arising especially in europe and consequently new methods for language teaching were developed in order to meet the needs of the new class of language learners howatt 1997

Communicative Language Teaching Today 2001 this volume offers several empirical methodological and theoretical approaches to the study of observable variation within individuals on various linguistic levels with a focus on german varieties the chapters provide answers on the following questions inter alia which linguistic and extra linguistic factors explain intra individual variation is there observable intra individual variation that cannot be explained by linguistic and extra linguistic factors can group level results be generalised to individual language usage and vice versa is intra individual variation indicative of actual patterns of language change how can intra individual variation be examined in historical data consequently the various theoretical methodological and empirical approaches in this volume offer a better understanding of the meaning of intra individual variation for patterns of language development language variation and change the inter and transdisciplinary nature of the volume is an exciting new frontier and the results of the studies in this book provide a wealth of new findings as well as challenges to some of the existing findings and assumptions regarding the nature of intra individual variation
