the purpose of this thesis is to explore the literary hybridism of contemporary war memoirs written about conflicts in locations considered mysterious the works chosen for this study are beirut fragments a war memoir by jean said makdisi in baghdad diaries 1991 2002 by nuha al radi and sharon and my mother in law ramallah diaries by suad amiry all of which are set in and around conflicts with in the middle east makdisi al radi and amiry illustrate the everyday struggles of ordinary civilians who suffer war embargo and occupation in doing so they provide the west with images of war and suffering in an attempt to humanize those who suffer in beirut baghdad and ramallah this thesis argues that while beirut fragments a war memoir baghdad diaries 1991 2002 and sharon and my mother in law ramallah diaries are clearly memoirs their role in illustrating the realities of conflicts and war coupled with the world audience's interests in human interest stories make traditional literary labels too rigid to classify these texts as simply memoirs in short the above memoirs hover between two labels journalistic texts and memoirs but should not be considered one or the other exclusively as each label alone is insufficient lacework or mirror diary poetics of frances burney dorothy wordsworth and mary shelley sets out to determine whether each of the diaries by three female writers namely frances burney dorothy wordsworth and mary shelley approximates the philippe lejeunean concept of the diary as lacework or the more sweeping view typical of the broadly conceived autobiography which georges gusdorf famously likened to the mirror the author explores burney s wordsworth s and shelley s attempts at concealing the gaps between their narrating and narrated i s as well as examining their diary lacunae especially helpful for illustrating the gradual emergence of the diarists individual selves broader issues connected with diary poetics such as the use of metaphors and symbols the degree of reliance on dialogue and ensuing narrativity down to handling the past by means of anachronous eccentricities are also subject to examination the study is based on the assumption that the journal is a literary genre which can be investigated with tools routinely used for the examination of literary texts yet beyond the issues of literariness in accordance with philippe lejeune s dictum the three journals reveal the writers diaristic practices in fact it seems that issues of the journal genre and the journal practice cannot be divorced and neither can their lacework and mirror aspects in her examination of neglected diaristic texts anne marie millim expands the field of victorian diary criticism by complicating the conventional notion of diaries as mainly private sources of biographical information she argues that for elizabeth rigby eastlake henry crabb robinson george eliot george gissing john ruskin edith simcox and gerard manley hopkins the exposure or publication of their diaries was a real possibility that they either coveted or feared millim locates the diary at the intersection of the public and private spheres to show that well known writers and public figures of both sexes exploited the diary s self reflexive diurnal structure in order to enhance their creativity and establish themselves as authors their object was to manage rather than to indulge or repress their emotions for the purposes of perfecting their observational and critical skills reading these diaries as literary works in their own right millim analyses their crucial role in the construction of authorship by relating these victorian writers diaries to their publications and to contemporary works of cultural criticism millim shows the multifarious ways in which diaristic practices emotional management and professional output corresponded to experiences of the literary marketplace and to nineteenth century codes of propriety
