primary experience gained through the senses is our most basic way of understanding reality and learning for ourselves our culture however favors the indirect knowledge gained from secondary experience in which information is selected modified packaged and presented to us by others in this controversial book edward s reed warns that secondhand experience has become so dominant in our technological workplaces schools and even homes that primary experience is endangered reed calls for a better balance between firsthand and secondhand experience particularly in our social institutions he contends that without opportunities to learn directly we become less likely to think and feel for ourselves since the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century western epistemological tradition has rejected primary experience in favor of the abstractions of secondhand experience building on james gibson s concept of ecological psychology reed offers a spirited defense of the reality and significance of ordinary experience against both modernist and postmodernist critics he expands on the radical critiques of work education and art begun by william morris and john dewey offering an alternative vision of meaningful learning that places greater emphasis on unmediated experience and he outlines the psychological cultural and intellectual conditions that will be needed to foster that crucial change in march 1968 thousands of chicano students walked out of their east los angeles high schools and middle schools to protest decades of inferior and discriminatory education in the so called mexican schools during these historic walkouts or blowouts the students were led by sal castro a courageous and charismatic mexican american teacher who encouraged the students to make their grievances public after school administrators and school board members failed to listen to them the resulting blowouts sparked the beginning of the urban chicano movement of the late 1960s and early 1970s the largest and most widespread civil rights protests by mexican americans in u s history this fascinating testimonio or oral history transcribed and presented in castro s voice by historian mario t garcia is a compelling highly readable narrative of a young boy growing up in los angeles who made history by his leadership in the blowouts and in his career as a dedicated and committed teacher blowout fills a major void in the history of the civil rights and chicano movements of the 1960s particularly the struggle for educational justice
