still another book on finite math why hasn't everything that should have been said been said no I would argue the shortcoming that troubles me most about the books I am familiar with is their failure to provide perspective on what math technique and the use of technology can do for us and its limitations this can only be addressed through vigorous and sustained use of the mathematical modeling perspective which is a hallmark of this book's exposition a point continually stressed is that reaching a mathematical answer to a problem is not the end of the story it is in a sense the end of a chapter but the next chapter is concerned with questions about whether and how the mathematical answer should be implemented also addressed is the question of what to consider when more than one answer is obtained for a problem

this book describes the development of an innovative solution for electrified roadway pavements based on engineered cementitious composites which are exhibiting an extreme tensile strain capacity that is much higher than conventional concrete this enables the pavement to work without steel reinforcement and to embed a dynamic wireless power transfer technology for charging electric vehicles at first the book presents a modified performance driven design approach to improve the composites to achieve the optimum pavement design in terms of functional and structural performance it shows that the modified composites can be used to fulfil the safety and comfort factors without neglecting the characteristics of conventional ones further 3d finite element and fluid dynamics models are used to analyse the pavement properties the validated models can predict the functional performance including skid resistance surface water drainage and noise in the remaining part of the thesis an environmentally friendly photocatalytic function for pavement made of engineered cementitious composites is investigated in turn a multi criteria design analysis is proposed to identify the optimum functional performance of the pavements all in all this book reports on a comprehensive approach to design analyse and optimize engineered cementitious composites for electrified road pavement application a special emphasis is given on applications in singapore and other tropical megacities
