taking its title from derek walcott s line the perpetual ideal is astonishment anne stevenson s sixteenth collection of poems looks back over eighty years of the earth s never ceasing turbulence setting clearly remembered scenes from her personal past against a background of geographical and historical change as always her chief preoccupation is with the extraordinary nature of experience itself and this she explores as a geologist might explore the rock layers beneath an urban surface relied upon by the senses yet in the perspective of deep time acknowledged to be temporary and passing as a poet who has always been anxious to balance imagination with insight and for whom the sound and shape of every poem is integral to its meaning

~~in european transatlantic migrations religion~~ islam is a major issue in the immigration debate in post secular germany and europe today essays focus on german missionaries and their efforts in the eighteenth century to establish new communal forms of living with native americans as religious encounters in a comparative fashion islamic transnational migration into germany in the twenty first century is explored in a second group of essays that look at muslim populations in germany they provide an insight into the ongoing discussions in germany about modern migration and the role of religion this volume is of interest to all who are engaged in issues of historical and contemporary migration in cultural and german studies
